The Tribute Party Gonzo will take place on Saturday, February 20th, at the Woody Creek Tavern in Aspen, Colorado. The event will feature live music, readings from Thompson's work, and plenty of Gonzo-themed activities. Attendees are encouraged to dress in their best Gonzo attire, and there will be a costume contest with prizes for the most creative outfits.

The event is being organized by the Hunter S. Thompson Foundation, a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving Thompson's legacy and supporting emerging writers. The foundation has been working to raise funds for a new museum and library dedicated to Thompson's work, and proceeds from the Tribute Party Gonzo will go towards this project.

Thompson was a prolific writer who published more than 20 books and countless articles. He is best known for his novel "Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas," which chronicled his drug-fueled road trip through the American Southwest. Thompson's work was often controversial, but it was also praised for its originality, humor, and insights into the human condition.

Thompson was more than just a writer. He was also a cultural icon, known for his flamboyant lifestyle and his outspoken views on politics and society. He was a friend to many celebrities, including Johnny Depp, Bill Murray, and Jack Nicholson. Thompson's death in 2005 was a major loss to the literary world, but his work continues to inspire and entertain readers around the globe.

The Tribute Party Gonzo is a unique opportunity to celebrate the life and work of one of the most important writers of the 20th century. Attendees will have the chance to enjoy live music, readings, and other activities, all while supporting a good cause. Tickets for the event are on sale now, and can be purchased at the Hunter S.
